85th Year—128

Bobby Bombed, Nixon Wins Big in Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy has scored an Oregon upset to reful his campaign for the White House, and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has conceded defeat in a Democratic presidential primary at once said he could not afford to lose.

The Democratic rivals turned today to California where they do primary battle again next Tuesday—and where the Oregon surprise is likely to echo.

Richard M. Nixon scored a 72 per cent runaway on the Republican ballot, and said that showing virtually eliminated the possibility that his drive for the GOP presidential nomination could be derailed.

The derailling was done on the Democratic side, where McCarthy was capturing 44 per cent of the vote to Kennedy's 38 per cent.

McCarthy said that should silence people who question his credentials as a real contender for the nomination, and have asked whether he will wind up supporting Kennedy or Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Humphrey was an absent beneficiary of Kennedy's Oregon setback, even though he never set a campaigning foot in the state.

The Democratic decision awarded McCarthy 35 nominating votes, while Nixon captured 18 GOP delegates. The primary binds them for two ballots, until released, or until the winners fail to secure 35 per cent of the convention vote.

The Oregon count was proceeding slowly as votes were cast on a crowded ballot bigger than a newspaper page. This was the Democratic lineup with 1,787 of 2,599 precincts counted:

McCarthy 81,188 for 44 per cent; Kennedy 70,645 for 38 per cent, Johnson 23,649 or 13 per cent, Humphrey 9,755, or 5 per cent.

Nixon's overwhelming vote read this way:

Nixon 110,512 for 72 per cent, California Gov. Ronald Reagan 33,763, or 22 per cent, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller 8,236 write-in votes for 5 per cent.

In another Democratic race,

Sen. Wayne Morse was leading, but narrowly, in his bid for re-nomination. He had 48 per cent of the vote to 47 per cent for rival Robert B. Duncan, a former House member. The count was 90,961 votes for Morse, 89,260 for Duncan.

Nixon scored his Republican victory in the face of the most vigorous rivalry he has encountered since Michigan Gov. George Romney dropped his candidacy.

Neither Reagan nor Rockefeller entered the state, and the New Yorker's name was not on the ballot. But well-financed drives, concentrating on television and voter canvasses, were waged for both absentees.

Deer Creek Dam Controls Flood Water

The Deer Creek Reservoir, a flood control project of the Army Corps of Engineers, has had its first real test and has come through with flying colors.

Flooding along Deer Creek did not reach the disaster proportions of the Salt Creek flood.

The gates were closed at the reservoir this morning at 8 a.m. the pool elevation was 883.70 feet above sea level.

An estimated 4,000 acres of water is impounded at the reservoir today. The depth of the water is estimated at 60 feet by the resident engineer there.

Draw down of the reservoir will begin when the Scioto River crests at Portsmouth and will continue until a pool elevation of 805 feet above sea level is reached. This will leave an impoundment of approximately 1,000 acres.

The maximum flood control pool elevation is 844 feet.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Odds appear solid the House will deal President Johnson another setback in his budget battle with Congress by echoing the Senate's demand that he cut spending by $6 billion if he wants a tax hike.

The test was to come today on a motion by Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., to reopen the House-Senate conference talks that produced agreement on a package combining a $10 billion tax increase with the $6 billion spending slash. Burke's move is a bid to get the House to demand a maximum $4 billion cut. Johnson has called the $6 billion figure too high but has indicated he would go along with $4 billion.

Inmate a Suicide

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The sheriff's department said a 17-year-old prisoner in the county jail hanged himself Tuesday night in his cell, using a belt. The coroner ruled suicide in the death of Robert Paskins of Columbus, who was jailed May 17 on an auto theft charge.

More Violence Rocks Louisville Despite Curfew

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — More than 150 persons were arrested and 15 others were injured Tuesday night as the second night of racial violence in Louisville was marked by hit-and-run tactics of brick throwers and sporadic sniper fire.

National Guardsmen aided police in the city's West End, a predominantly Negro section where rioting erupted Monday night and resumed Tuesday afternoon and night.

Three persons hit by gunfire during Tuesday night's disorders were reported in serious condition. A policeman was also hit by a gunshot. He was reported in good condition. Three firemen and three guardsmen were admitted to the hospital. One fireman suffered from smoke inhalation. The others were struck by thrown glass and rocks.

Twenty persons were injured Monday night, including four gunshot victims.

Police Chief C. J. Hyde said Tuesday's violence was more intense than Monday "from a standpoint of hit-and-run tactics." He said the 8 p.m. curfew imposed Tuesday by Mayor Kenneth Schmied increased the number of arrests. Hyde said police policy was "to arrest all violators of any kind."

"By this method and a show of force at an early stage, we have been able to control the situation to the extent that there was no large gathering," he added.

A decision on whether to impose a curfew tonight on this city of 400,000 was to be made today by Schmied.

Lt. Col. Bert Hawkins, Hyde's assistant, said the heaviest instance of sniper fire was encountered by police protecting firemen. "Snipers opened up on the firemen and the policemen with them. The police weren't able to pinpoint the location of the snipers but a car sped away shortly after the firing stopped."

2nd Girl Dies In OSU Fire; Seek Motive

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Miss Retta D. Foster, 22, of Colorado Springs, Colo., died in University Hospital today, second death victim of a fire which ravaged the 11th floor of 24-floor Lincoln Tower dormitory at Ohio State University last Wednesday.

Miss Pamela Sue Patterson, 18, a freshman at Ludlow Falls, Miami County, succumbed to smoke inhalation shortly after the fire swept through the six suites on the floor.

The second death came only a day after Eugene Jewell, head of the arson bureau of the state fire marshal's office, said the blaze which injured 14 other coeds was "a set fire." He said investigators were still seeking a motive.

University hospital authorities said Miss Foster's death came at 7:30 a.m. and was due to "complications arising from smoke inhalation." The official said the coroner's office is expected to issue a ruling on the exact cause of death.

With Miss Foster's death, only two other coeds remain in the hospital. Marjorie Burnett of Ravenna and Diana Pollitt of Bedford Heights. Both are in satisfactory condition.

Jewell's report confirmed what university officials had indicated shortly after the fire—that it had been deliberately set.

University officials said the fire was a carbon copy of a fire May 10 in Morrill Tower, a twin dormitory. There were no injuries in the Morrill fire and no official report has yet been released on its cause.

State Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, Cleveland Democrat, called Tuesday for an investigation of the fires by the Senate-House Public Improvement Inspection Committee.

SALTREEK Vally Bank, which was flooded by the recent rains, is expected to be open for business by Saturday with full services resumed by Monday, according to the bank vice president.

OVERWHELMING response by Pickaway County residents to the disaster situation in Laurelville has provided more than enough clothing for flood victims, village officials said. The residents have all the clothing they need now, and authorities say that food and cleaning supplies are presently needed more than anything else. National Guard troops are making regular trips from the Franklin St. armory in Circleville to the village with needed supplies. Anyone who can contribute either food or cleaning supplies is asked to take them to the local armory.

Refuse Hauler, Attorney Walk Out of Dump Hearing

Attorney Alan Berger and his client, Larry Mets, dropped a bombshell in the dump injunction hearing Tuesday, when they got up in the middle of proceedings yesterday afternoon and stormed from the Common Pleas Courtroom.

Berger told the court that he and his client had been harassed so much during the hearing that they could stand no more.

Berger said that as of "1:31 p.m., Larry Mets is closing the dump on the Dr. John Bowers farm and is no longer hauling refuse and garbage."

He requested the judge to issue an entry of consent to closing the dump. Judge William Ammer declined pending completion of the hearing.

HOWEVER Mets said today that he is still servicing his customers and is hauling their trash.

He emphasized that he was phasing out the dump operation on the Bowers farm. The dump is in the flood plain of the Scioto River.

Witnesses testifying for the state during the hearing have maintained that debris from the dump is deposited on land downstream every time the river floods.

Mets, meeting with commissioners informally today, said it was time the Board of Health, commissioners, dump operators and trash haulers go together and begin cooperating.

"I don't intend to quit hauling," he said. "But if I have to dump at the Barthelmas site I will be forced out of business," he claimed.

He has discussed the possibility of operating a landfill operation in a suitable location with county commissioners. However, the county solons have not committed themselves in any dump operation yet.

BERGER said yesterday they would comply by any order of the court which resulted from the hearing. Berger said if Mets quit hauling rubbish, "Circleville would be another Paris," referring to the strike of France that paralyzed solid waste disposal operations in the city.

One observer in the courtroom termed Berger's action as a move to "blackmail" the court into keeping the dump open.

In addition to his route for private residents, Mets also hauls solid refuse from several local industrial plants.

Berger and Mets left the hearings before presenting any

Navy Armada Still Searches; Weather Bad

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy today reported the sighting of an unidentified orange object north of an Atlantic oil slick which has thus far been the only clue as to the possible whereabouts of the missing submarine Scorpion and its crew of 99.

Facing more nasty weather today, 40 U.S. Navy ships and submarines and 16 patrol aircraft headed into a third day of searching thousands of miles of storm-churned Atlantic waters.

So far the round-the-clock search has produced not a single reliable clue to the whereabouts of the missing Scorpion. "We had hoped something would show by Tuesday morning, the day after she was reported overdue," one Navy officer said.

"We're still trying, but we're getting pessimistic."

Capt. Walter N. Dietzen Jr., a submarine warfare expert, told newsmen the Scorpion—whether disabled on the surface or at some survivable depth—should have been able to communicate by Tuesday.

Pentagon officials said they were evaluating a British amateur radio operator's report claiming to have monitored a ship-to-ship conversation involving the Scorpion. Navy sources said their checks suggested the report was groundless.

According to the Pentagon, John Greyson of Barnoldswick, Yorkshire, told a constable he heard "a distinctly American voice in what seemed to be a distress call from Scorpion" on the 2.5 meter band Monday morning, London time.

The Pentagon said the call reportedly indicated "that the ship was having some kind of condenser trouble and was attempting to return to its base."

The Navy had about 100 specifically trained deep divers on alert in Washington and San Diego, Calif., for possible emergency use if the sub were located in shallow enough water.

Dietzen, deputy director of submarine warfare, indicated the crew could survive for longer than 70 days if the nuclear reactor continued to work and the skipper took certain measures to conserve the crews' strength.

William Stepp Is Acquitted

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A jury acquitted William E. Stepp, 33, Dayton, of armed robbery and assault charges Tuesday during the sixth day of his trial in Montgomery County Common Pleas Court.

The charges were filed Feb. 9 after Michael Rentas, 24, Beavercreek, claimed he was robbed and severely beaten by Stepp.

Assistant prosecutor Walter Dodsworth contended that Stepp attacked Rentas, a part time student at Sinclair College here, at Stepp's home. Stepp's attorneys maintained that Rentas fell through a glass door and injured himself after a fight with Stepp.

Vietnam War Intensifies; Report Scattered Action

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese troops battled Viet Cong holdouts today on the southwest side of Saigon as the U.S. Marines reported hurling back two massive North Vietnamese assaults near Khe Sanh. The Marines said they killed 230 of the enemy.

"The war has intensified," said Gen. William C. Westmoreland, "but the enemy is not doing well militarily. They've had no military victories."

After four days of hard fighting on the outskirts of Saigon, the South Vietnamese said they had wiped out the last Viet Cong pockets in Gia Dinh, on the northern side of the city, and retaken two thirds of the Phu Lam residential area on the southwest side of the city.

In Phu Lam, four miles from downtown Saigon, government marines were advancing from the south while rangers pushed in from the north, trying to dig out a Viet Cong force strengthened by 100 or more reinforcements during the night.

U.S. gunship helicopters fired rockets into buildings from which enemy snipers were laying down sharp barrages of small arms and rocket fire into street intersections.

South Vietnamese officers said one VC prisoner indicated that the infiltrators had taken heavy casualties, possibly up to 50 per cent in two days of clashes. But two South Vietnamese troops were killed and 10 wounded in the first few hours of fighting this morning.

The government radio reported more than 100 Viet Cong killed in the last few days around Gia Dinh.

A captured Viet Cong document unveiled by the U.S. Command exhorted the guerrillas to work for "more striking and more decisive victories" to better the bargaining position of North Vietnam's negotiators in Paris.

Allied intelligence reports indicate that 17 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese battalions have been assigned to harass Saigon and its suburbs during the talks. A full-strength enemy battalion normally means 400 troops but government intelligence sources say some of these battalions may be down to fewer than 100 men after severe losses in the enemy's February Tet offensive.

Along South Vietnam's northern frontier, fighting also continued for the fifth straight day.

A U.S. spokesman said allied forces have killed more than 3,000 North Vietnamese along the demilitarized zone since May 1, about a third of them in the past four days.

The big battle two miles southeast of Khe Sanh combat base was touched off when the North Vietnamese twice probed Marine positions before dawn Tuesday. After the second probe, 400 enemy troops throwing rocket-propelled grenades and satchel charges attacked the Marines under the cover of heavy artillery barrages.

The attack was repulsed but the North Vietnamese regrouped and charged again. U.S. helicopter gunships swept down to attack the charging North Vietnamese, and later 200 Marine reinforcements and U.S. tanks joined in.

As the combined Marine force pursued the North Vietnamese on foot, U.S. artillery raked enemy positions and fighter-bombers overhead contributed bombs and 20mm cannon fire.

Marine spokesmen said the North Vietnamese withdrew Tuesday night, covering their retreat with a blanket of artillery fire. Thirteen Marines were killed and 44 wounded, the U.S. Command said.

pockets in Gia Dinh, on the northern side of the city, and retaken two thirds of the Phu Lam residential area on the southwestern side of the city.

In Phu Lam, four miles from downtown Saigon, government marines were advancing from the south while rangers pushed in from the north, trying to dig out a Viet Cong force strengthened by 100 or more reinforcements during the night.

U.S. gunship helicopters fired rockets into buildings from which enemy snipers were laying down sharp barrages of small arms and rocket fire into street intersections.

South Vietnamese officers said one VC prisoner indicated that the infiltrators had taken heavy casualties, possibly up to 50 per cent in two days of clashes. But two South Vietnamese troops were killed and 10 wounded in the first few hours of fighting this morning.

The government radio reported more than 100 Viet Cong killed in the last few days around Gia Dinh.

A captured Viet Cong document unveiled by the U.S. Command exhorted the guerrillas to work for "more striking and more decisive victories" to better the bargaining position of North Vietnam's negotiators in Paris.

Allied intelligence reports indicate that 17 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese battalions have been assigned to harass Saigon and its suburbs during the talks. A full-strength enemy battalion normally means 400 troops but government intelligence sources say some of these battalions may be down to fewer than 100 men after severe losses in the enemy's February Tet offensive.

Along South Vietnam's northern frontier, fighting also continued for the fifth straight day.

A U.S. spokesman said allied forces have killed more than 3,000 North Vietnamese along the demilitarized zone since May 1, about a third of them in the past four days.

The big battle two miles southeast of Khe Sanh combat base was touched off when the North Vietnamese twice probed Marine positions before dawn Tuesday. After the second probe, 400 enemy troops throwing rocket-propelled grenades and satchel charges attacked the Marines under the cover of heavy artillery barrages.

The attack was repulsed but the North Vietnamese regrouped and charged again. U.S. helicopter gunships swept down to attack the charging North Vietnamese, and later 200 Marine reinforcements and U.S. tanks joined in.

As the combined Marine force pursued the North Vietnamese on foot, U.S. artillery raked enemy positions and fighter-bombers overhead contributed bombs and 20mm cannon fire.

Marine spokesmen said the North Vietnamese withdrew Tuesday night, covering their retreat with a blanket of artillery fire. Thirteen Marines were killed and 44 wounded, the U.S. Command said.

Defense Ready In Spock Case

See Testimony By Defendants

BOSTON (AP) — Defense lawyers outline their case today on behalf of Dr. Benjamin Spock and four others accused of conspiring to counsel young men to avoid the draft.

The government rested its case Tuesday against the five defendants after 30 prosecution witnesses testified in the seven-day trial.

With the conclusion of the government's case, the defense offered motions for dismissal of the charges or a directed verdict of acquittal. Attorneys said these were denied by U.S. District Judge Francis J. W. Ford in a conference in his chambers.

The 65-year-old pediatrician is on trial with Yale Chaplain William Sloane Coffin Jr., 43; Mitchell Goodman, 44, a New York writer and teacher; Marcus Raskin, 33, a Washington research director; and Michael Ferber, 23, a graduate student at Harvard.

If convicted, they face five-year prison terms and $10,000 fines.

Their lawyers indicated that at least two of the defendants would take the witness stand, and it was considered likely in that event that all five including Spock would testify.

Light Rain Harasses Flood Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The weatherman included the familiar word "rain" in today's forecast for Ohio.

But rainfall amounts weren't expected to be heavy enough to worsen flood conditions that still exist in many parts of southern Ohio, hit by record rains during the past week.

Residents of 27 counties await word whether President Johnson will declare them disaster areas, as requested by Gov. James A. Rhodes. The designation would make the counties eligible for special federal aid, such as grants and low-term loans for repairing damage to public facilities, homes and businesses.

In Athens Tuesday night, Civil Defense workers, student volunteer workers from Ohio University and others piled sandbags to keep high water from breaking through an elevated section of Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks. The situation was reported under control early today but the tracks are out of use because of damage to their supports.

The Hocking River in Athens crested overnight, the Highway Patrol reported, and the town was one of the many Ohio communities still partly underwater.

In Cincinnati, the Ohio River was scheduled to crest Thursday at 56½ feet, four feet over flood stage. Some areas near the river were flooded, including River Downs race track which has been closed since last week. River Downs had hoped to reopen Memorial Day, but officials now say the track will resume operations Saturday at the earliest.

Utilities Director Attends Meeting

"Ervin" Leist, Circleville Utilities manager, will attend the conference of the American Water Works Assn. in Cleveland, June 2-7.

The association has a membership in excess of 20,000 from all the states, Canada and several Latin American countries. Some 5,000 will be in attendance.

Leist, a former member of the board of directors, is currently a member of the General Policy Committee, which will meet prior to the opening of the conference.

He is also president of The Fuller Award Society, a national honorary organization, and will serve as chairman at the annual breakfast of the society Wednesday morning.

Leist is chairman of the Operator Training Publications Committee which will meet during the Conference.

U.S. Won't Cut Bombing Without Moves by Hanoi

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says he's prepared to keep his peace envoys in Paris for an indefinite period but will not further reduce U.S. bombing of North Vietnam without similar restraint by Hanoi.

Johnson's comments at a Tuesday news conference came after he was briefed on the Paris talks by Cyrus R. Vance, top assistant to chief U.S. negotiator W. Averell Harriman.

Vance also briefed top Congress members, after which Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he was "not discouraged" about peace prospects. But Mansfield voiced hope "the American people realize this is something that will take weeks and maybe months."

Vance plans to return to the French capital late this week.

Johnson said it is time for the Communists "to move from fantasy and propaganda" at the conference table—the North Vietnamese have yet to acknowledge any of their forces are in South Vietnam—and to get down to serious negotiations for a peaceful settlement.

The President reported the enemy is pouring record amounts of men and material into the South and has accelerated attacks since the Paris parley began nearly three weeks ago.

Nevertheless, "we shall continue patiently to see whether the Paris talks shall yield anything in the way of constructive results," Johnson said.

Other sources said Vance and Harriman are gearing for discussions they believe could last through the summer and beyond.

Harriman and his advisers think there is little chance of early agreement from Ambassador Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam to do this. But they insist private diplomacy will have to be employed if the talks are to make any progress.

President Johnson said in Washington Tuesday that the time has come to get away from "fantasy and propaganda" and into "quiet, serious discussions."

While expressing dissatisfaction with the two and a half weeks of negotiations, Johnson declared: "We shall continue patiently to see if the Paris talks can yield constructive results."

Harriman and Thuy meet behind closed doors, but statements are issued afterward and spokesmen for both sides brief newsmen on what happened.

Harriman reportedly wants an opportunity to sit down with Thuy informally and explore—without commitments on either side—the possibilities of working out arrangements to reduce military operations in Vietnam.

Harriman and Thuy stated conflicting positions on this problem in their first session May 13 and have repeated them frequently since then.

Thuy says the United States must halt the rest of the bombing and other attacks on North Vietnam before broader peace-making issues can be discussed. Harriman insists that North Vietnam must in some manner scale down its own military operations to justify the cessation of U.S. attacks against the North.

Nixon thus climaxed a victory march that began in New Hampshire. His name is entered, uncontested, in one more primary, in South Dakota, on June 4.

The former vice president said he will now concentrate on states which select their nominating delegations by convention—and expects to be hearing soon from some Republicans who have been straddling the fence, watching the primaries.

But for McCarthy and Kennedy, the primary campaign rages on, without a pause. Both men head south today, Kennedy to Los Angeles, McCarthy to Stockton and San Francisco.

Despite his defeat, Kennedy said he was not about to give up the race he launched four days after McCarthy held President Johnson to a New Hampshire primary standoff which demonstrated the breadth of Democratic dissent.

In Los Angeles, Democratic national committeeman Eugene Wyman called on Kennedy to withdraw as a candidate and support Humphrey.

"Sen. Kennedy correctly stated that he had to win Oregon to remain in the race," Wyman said. "His defeat by his own admission eliminates him."

On the eve of the primary, Kennedy said: "I can't afford to lose if I'm going to remain a very active and viable candidate."

At his Portland campaign headquarters, Kennedy drafted an unprecedented document for a Kennedy—a concession statement. His upset ended a chain of family election victories that began 22 years ago when the late President John F. Kennedy was elected to Congress, and which also included the victories of brother Edward M. Kennedy.

Thuy says the United States must halt the rest of the bombing and other attacks on North Vietnam before broader peace-making issues can be discussed. Harriman insists that North Vietnam must in some manner scale down its own military operations to justify the cessation of U.S. attacks against the North.

Nixon thus climaxed a victory march that began in New Hampshire. His name is entered, uncontested, in one more primary, in South Dakota, on June 4.

The former vice president said he will now concentrate on states which select their nominating delegations by convention—and expects to be hearing soon from some Republicans who have been straddling the fence, watching the primaries.

But for McCarthy and Kennedy, the primary campaign rages on, without a pause. Both men head south today, Kennedy to Los Angeles, McCarthy to Stockton and San Francisco.

Despite his defeat, Kennedy said he was not about to give up the race he launched four days after McCarthy held President Johnson to a New Hampshire primary standoff which demonstrated the breadth of Democratic dissent.

In Los Angeles, Democratic national committeeman Eugene Wyman called on Kennedy to withdraw as a candidate and support Humphrey.

"Sen. Kennedy correctly stated that he had to win Oregon to remain in the race," Wyman said. "His defeat by his own admission eliminates him."

On the eve of the primary, Kennedy said: "I can't afford to lose if I'm going to remain a very active and viable candidate."

At his Portland campaign headquarters, Kennedy drafted an unprecedented document for a Kennedy—a concession statement. His upset ended a chain of family election victories that began 22 years ago when the late President John F. Kennedy was elected to Congress, and which also included the victories of brother Edward M. Kennedy.

3 Charged With Selling Bogus Bills

CLEVELAND (AP) — U.S. Secret Service agents so far have grabbed $200,000 in phony bills and say three Cleveland area men arrested Tuesday were middle men in a counterfeiting operation involving Ohio, Pennsylvania and several southern states.

The three were charged with selling $18,000 worth of the bills and agents said they confiscated 180 phony 100s at a Cleveland area motel.

Wilmer K. Deckard, head of the Secret Service in Cleveland, said the three were picked up while making the phony money sale in the motel lobby. Deckard said similar bills have been turning up over the last two months in Cleveland bars and gas stations.

Arrested were Gary D. Harris and Joseph Farinacci, 41, both of Cleveland, and Guy Pouter, 26, Cleveland Heights.

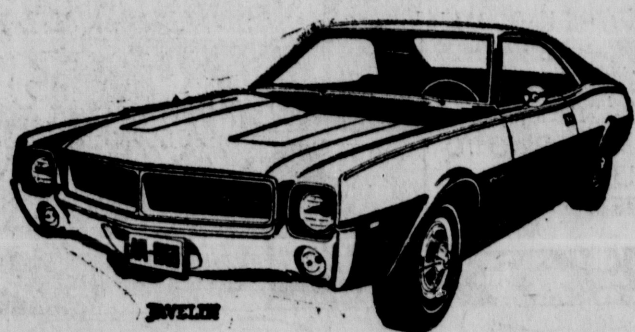

A hearing was set for June 6. Harris was held in lieu of $50,000 bond. Asst. U.S. Atty. Robert Rotatori said Harris already was free on $5,000 and $15,000 federal bonds on charges of interstate transportation of stolen checks and passing a forged government check.

End Hamilton School Fight

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — A predominantly Negro citizens group and the Hamilton Board of Education have reached an agreement in their dispute but it might require submission of a levy to voters.

The board conceded Tuesday to grant eight demands of the Concerned Citizens Committee, which had picketed Harrison Elementary School and the board and organized a boycott at four schools.

Topping the list of demands agreed to by the board was one to initiate recruiting procedures for a Negro principal at Harrison.

The board also agreed to hire more Negro teachers at all schools and offer Negro courses at junior and senior highs.

Board Vice President Dr. Ernest Davis indicated Tuesday that implementation of the agreement might have to be determined by voters' approval of a levy, but he said the board "feels we can definitely depend on" the committee "to help us on the proposal."

Find Man Embezzled $602,000

CLEVELAND (AP)—"There's only one way I can go from here and that's up," said Anthony M. Arden Tuesday after pleading guilty in federal court to embezzling $602,000 from a bank to play the stock market.

So far, Arden has repaid $459,000 to the Union Commerce Bank, where he worked as a safekeeping account administrator.

Asst. U.S. Atty. James L. Oakar said Arden, 27, used bank funds to pay the stock market and hopefully keep the profits, but was caught when the market declined earlier this year.

Oakar said Arden was in charge of the bank's Brokers' suspense account, used to buy securities for customers, when he started embezzling in June last year.

One bank official said, "He's a brilliant young man and the last person in the world you would expect to do this. Only a very smart cookie could pull off the thing and I wouldn't dare spell out the details."

When the stock market declined in March, Oakar said, Arden was unable to make payments into the account. A bank auditor found it unbalanced by $602,000.

Arden, who lives in Rocky River, is a graduate of Baldwin-Wallace College and working on his master's degree in business administration at Case Western Reserve University.

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Dear Editor:

We would like somehow to thank all of our friends, relatives, neighbors and all the other people in our community who helped us and offered to help in our time of need. For a while we felt we would lose everything we owned and had worked hard for and yet I had faith in God that He would protect us and take care of us as we waded thru the deep muddy water and the rain that seemed would never stop. Our loss from the flood on Stella Avenue and Bloomdale addition is very little compared to the communities around us. Thanks again to everyone who helped us.

End Hamilton School Fight

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — A predominantly Negro citizens group and the Hamilton Board of Education have reached an agreement in their dispute but it might require submission of a levy to voters.

The board conceded Tuesday to grant eight demands of the Concerned Citizens Committee, which had picketed Harrison Elementary School and the board and organized a boycott at four schools.

Topping the list of demands agreed to by the board was one to initiate recruiting procedures for a Negro principal at Harrison.

The board also agreed to hire more Negro teachers at all schools and offer Negro courses at junior and senior highs.

Board Vice President Dr. Ernest Davis indicated Tuesday that implementation of the agreement might have to be determined by voters' approval of a levy, but he said the board "feels we can definitely depend on" the committee "to help us on the proposal."

Find Man Embezzled $602,000

CLEVELAND (AP)—"There's only one way I can go from here and that's up," said Anthony M. Arden Tuesday after pleading guilty in federal court to embezzling $602,000 from a bank to play the stock market.

So far, Arden has repaid $459,000 to the Union Commerce Bank, where he worked as a safekeeping account administrator.

Asst. U.S. Atty. James L. Oaker said Arden, 27, used bank funds to play the stock market and hopefully keep the profits, but was caught when the market declined earlier this year.

Oaker said Arden was in charge of the bank's Brokers' suspense account, used to buy securities for customers, when he started embezzling in June last year.

One bank official said, "He's a brilliant young man and the last person in the world you would expect to do this. Only a very smart cookie could pull off the thing and I wouldn't dare spell out the details."

When the stock market declined in March, Oaker said, Arden was unable to make payments into the account. A bank auditor found it unbalanced by $602,000.

Arden, who lives in Rocky River, is a graduate of Baldwin-Wallace College and working on his master's degree in business administration at Case Western Reserve University.

The Czechoslovakia born of the idealism of its founder Dr. Thomas Masaryk died 20 years ago when the broken body of Dr. Masaryk's son, Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk, was found in a Prague courtyard.

The Stalinist regime which had already seized the hapless nation declared him a suicide, despite evidence to the contrary.

The government of Gen. Ludvik Svoboda, successor to the totalitarian rule of Antonin Novotny, has agreed to investigate the 20-year-old tragedy.

In doing so, the government assumes an obligation to try and ascertain the truth about the man who represented the last official link to Central Europe's most enlightened experiment in free government.

Honestly pursued, such an inquiry could be a long stride toward a final break with the Stalin era. Apparently some Czechs are convinced this will be a long step toward freedom.

But obviously the Kremlin has different ideas and intends to implement them if this becomes necessary.

Travel Tax Out

President Johnson's plans for cutting overseas travel to right the U.S. balance of trade will be scuttled in favor of moral suasion if the bill adopted by the House clears the Senate in its present form.

Gone, at least for now, is the controversial graduated travel tax on tourist expenditures of more than $7 a day, leaving only a levy of 5 percent on plane tickets and some lowering of duty-free limits that will stop few at airport or pier.

The President's proposal was unrealistic in conception and amounted to little more than tourist harassment since the amount in dollars to be saved came to only a fraction of the payments deficit. Causes of the deficit would have remained undisturbed.

Even if the travel tax were to be restored and tourism substantially reduced, retaliatory action by other nations in the form of tariff walls would be more than just a possibility.

Students Being Cheated

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Despite my feeling that the Mark Rudd-type of student rebellion that brought Columbia University to a standstill should be scotched everywhere before it can gather nationwide momentum, I feel sorry for the present college generation. It has been victimized by twenty years of insensitive administration, negligent teaching, and a subtle collectivistic indoctrination that has deprived it of any sense of the fact that our country was created by individuals who were not afraid of their own.

This was borne in upon me back in the early Nineteen Forties, when the daughter of an army general with long experience in the Philippines quarrelled with her English teacher at Vassar over a matter of point of view. The girl had been brought up offshore, and held to her father's ideas about the West Point concept of "duty, honor, country." She got a poor mark for her refusal to qualify as a character model for novels about Vassar such as Mary McCarthy's "The Group."

Let a few years go by. My own daughters (three of them), a son, and two boys who have since become my sons-in-law, learned quite early how to beat the game in pursuit of good college grades. After a few disastrous experiences they discovered that the key to classroom success was to regurgitate what the professors had told them. They did this quite cynically, meanwhile conducting their own educations on the side.

They had classmates, however, who never learned to think for themselves even in a cynical way. How many students in our economics courses are aware that Paul Samuelson, author of a widely-used standard text, has kept changing his views about inflation from edition to edition? How many of them have had access to two points of view on the amount of State Welfareism that can be tolerated without bringing a society to the parlous condition in which Harold Wilson's England now finds itself? How many of them would react to the word "colonialism" by saying "Poland" instead of "Africa" or "Indochina"? How many of them know that the UN responds to balance-of-power considerations even in defiance of its own charter? With their brains thoroughly addled by what they have learned in class, it is small wonder that college revolts are so aimless.

Then there is the bureaucratic aspect of Behemoth U. Good professors who want to teach undergraduates rather than contribute to scholarly journals are allowed to perish as academicians because they don't publish as learned hacks. Students complain that their contact with the faculty is limited to access to the assistants who correct their papers. It's worse in Europe than it is here: a young German Ph.D. who is at Yale on a two-year exchange fellowship says that education on the continent of Europe hasn't changed since the Middle Ages. The student-professor ratio in some European universities is 400 to 1. No wonder the kids at the Sorbonne finally went into a frenzy.

It's easier for the student in the small college to make his grievances plain. At little Rockford College in Illinois, the president, John Howard, asks student cooperation in reviewing the official statement of College Purpose. Next year little Rockford, at the undergraduates' request, will unveil a Policy Review Board consisting of faculty, student, and administrative representatives. Why couldn't such a mechanism be adopted at Behemoth U?

The boys and girls are right in sensing that modern college education is something of a fraud. They have been locked into the fraud because our great corporations stupidly insist on an A.B. degree when they are recruiting for higher echelon material. The government has conspired to impose a fraudulent sense of values on young people by drafting them to fight in a war which it has lacked the honesty and the courage to declare. I happen to think that the war is for a good purpose. But you'd never know it from the way that Washington has chosen to fight it.

I am not for the Students for a Demonic Society; if they trusted me, I would consider myself an untrustworthy character. But I am for all those students who feel frustrated by their college experience without quite knowing that they have been deprived of contact with the full heritage of the civilization of the West.

Even though "Julia" is not aimed at solving problems, Miss Carroll believes that it can accomplish some good.

"I think familiarity can do as much as anything to help relations between the races," she said. "We live in a segregated society, and the white people have no notion of how Negroes live. Anything that brings the unknown into the white community is bound to do some good."

TV Controversy

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The most talked-about series of the new television season is a situation comedy called "Julia." The reason for the talk is that the situations will concern a young Negro woman, played by singer Diahann Carroll.

The show is still four months away from its premier, and only the pilot has been filmed. But already it is the cause of controversy. In a Saturday Review article titled "Julia": Breakthrough or Let down?" Robert Lewis Shayon criticized the project for failing to deal with the "two target groups in American life—Negro youth and Negro men."

Shayon pointed out that the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders reported that unemployment is not a problem with Negro women; the real problem is Negro youth "hustling in the jungle" of their "crime-ridden, violence-prone and poverty-stricken world," many of them deprived of the presence of the "solid citizen" father.

"The Negro female accommodates to the white power structure; the Negro male is aggressive in his demands for responsibility, and such aggression would hardly be welcome in a TV series," said the writer.

Miss Carroll was recently in Hollywood briefly to hunt for a home before starting the NBC series, which was created and produced by Hal Kanter for 20th Century-Fox. She was scornful of the Shayon article.

"I'm sure if I were to review a book he wrote, I would read it first," she commented. "I would think that he might give us the courtesy of seeing our show before he criticized it."

Diahann Carroll is obviously not a person to dodge controversy. Despite her odd name ("I still don't know where my mother got it") and exotic appearance, she was born and reared in the Bronx and has experienced all the knocks that big-city living can give to members of a minority race.

Despite her intense concern with the civil rights movement, she feels that "Julia" should not necessarily be devoted to Negro aspirations.

"We're dealing with an entertainment medium," she remarked. "Julia" is a drama-comedy; it isn't politically oriented. Because I am black, that doesn't mean I have to deal with the problems of all black people. That's not my sole responsibility."

In the series Miss Carroll will portray Julia Baker, a young nurse whose flier husband has recently been killed in Vietnam action. She has a young son, and they go to live in a pleasant, predominantly white apartment building. Julia is employed as assistant to a doctor, played by Lloyd Nolan, at a space plant.

The series will not ignore the fact that she is black, Miss Carroll said but the matter will be dealt with in a humorous way. For instance, the white boy with whom her son plays remarks in the pilot film, "Hey—your mother's colored." "Yeah, so am I," says her son. "You are?" says the other boy.

In another scene she informs Nolan over the telephone that she is a Negro. "Have you always been colored or are you just trying to be fashionable?" he asks.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

MR. KADISON, whose wife had already won two gold cups for being the worst automobile driver in Westchester, called his insurance adjuster to report another of her periodic mishaps.

"What happened THIS time?" asked the adjuster wearily. "As near as I can figure it," replied Mr. K., "she was backing out of our garage when she hit two trash cans, knocked over our TV antenna and the sauna bath, ruined my son Phil's bicycle—and then she lost control of the car."

"Marvin is so forgetful," complained a sales manager to his secretary. "It's a miracle that he remembers his name. I asked him to pick me up a pack of cigarettes on his way back from lunch, but I'm not even sure he'll remember to come back himself."

Just then Marvin dashed into the office and cried, "What a break, Boss! At lunch, I met old man Hess, who hasn't bought a penny's worth from us in five years and before we parted I talked him into a $200,000 order!" "What did I tell you?" sighed the sales manager. "He forgot the cigarettes!"

Noteworthy characters of the week include the carnival mother who reprimanded her son, "How many times have I told you not to talk with someone in your mouth?" And the Housenite so loaded with pelf that his son's piggy bank has four vice presidents.

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

What is the most common cause of swelling of the ankles? The frequency of the causes of swelling of the ankles and the legs is not nearly as important as the tracking down of the basic cause. The reasons for this condition are many. Some are of little importance, while others may have more serious significance.

The underlying mechanical reason for most swelling, or edema, is some interference with blood circulation. When once this is established, the initial reason for the change in circulation must then be sought.

So wide is the range that the cause may vary from tight garters to a chronic heart condition.

Heart disease, chronic infections of the kidneys, severe varicose veins, are a few of the more important reasons for this condition. The character of the swelling and its duration after a period of rest with the feet elevated, is of extreme importance to the doctor who evaluates this disorder.

Just standing on one's feet at work for long periods of time may be an important cause. In the elderly, narrowing of the blood vessels due to arteriosclerosis may interfere with the blood circulation and produce swelling, especially towards the end of the day.

Only recently a physician made the astute observation that women who wore very tight girdles developed swelling of the legs because of interference with the return flow of blood through the veins.

That which is of utmost importance is that all swelling must not be neglected. Almost always the condition can be relieved after the cause has definitely been established.

Is there really an aging process that is now better understood scientifically? The process of aging is said to begin at birth. Actually, I believe the growth of a child into maturity does not really fall into the classification of aging.

It is known that with time there is chronic wear and tear on the heart, the lungs, the muscles, the joints, and every other organ of the body.

It is an accepted fact that the bones become more brittle, and that the stamina diminishes as we get older. The newer knowledge of the processes of aging has been responsible for

NEW YORK (AP) — Wages and profits are rising. Only 3.5 per cent of the labor force is out of work. People have cash in the bank. Goods are heaped on department store counters.

For the well fed, well clothed, well rested American with a late model car and a comfortable apartment or house, the dark blue forecasts from some economists seem distant and contradictory.

Those Americans outside the poverty sector are living in physical comfort that never was more luxurious. The booming recreation business gives partial testimony to this.

In short, most Americans never had it so good. And that is one of the chief reasons why the administration's efforts to avert more financial troubles through a tax increase is stalled in Congress.

The weaknesses do exist, however, camouflaged by some of the very best times in American history.

Here are some of what are considered to be dangerous weaknesses in the economy.

—It is inflated. A wage-price spiral is turning faster by the month and could spin out of control. Wages are rising faster than productivity. And the prices of products and services are matching these wage increases.

Since wages have value only in relation to prices, or to what these wages can buy, the apparent improvement in the worker's position is evaporated in the heat of inflation. And business soon loses its price increases to higher wages.

The delusion is evident at all levels. Economists have forecast an increase of 7 to 8 per cent in the nation's production of goods and services this year. Then, with asterisks, they note that 3½ to 4 per cent of this simply will be in rising prices.

For many years the United States has spent more abroad than it has collected from foreigners. But this resulted largely from American aid and military commitments and from American business investments abroad.

Now, however, the country is experiencing problems with its

They had classmates, however, who never learned to think for themselves even in a cynical way. How many students in our economics courses are aware that Paul Samuelson, author of a widely-used standard text, has kept changing his views about inflation from edition to edition? How many of them have had access to two points of view on the amount of State Welfareism that can be tolerated without bringing a society to the parolous condition in which Harold Wilson's England now finds itself? How many of them would react to the word "colonialism" by saying "Poland" instead of "Africa" or "Indochina"? How many of them know that the UN responds to balance-of-power considerations even in defiance of its own charter? With their brains thoroughly addled by what they have learned in class, it is small wonder that college revolts are so aimless.

Then there is the bureaucratic aspect of Behemoth U. Good professors who want to teach undergraduates rather than contribute to scholarly journals are allowed to perish as academicians because they don't publish as learned hacks. Students complain that their contact with the faculty is limited to access to the assistants who correct their papers. It's worse in Europe than it is here: a young German Ph.D. who is at Yale on a two-year exchange fellowship says that education on the continent of Europe hasn't changed since the Middle Ages. The student-professor ratio in some European universities is 400 to 1. No wonder the kids at the Sorbonne finally went into a frenzy.

It's easier for the student in the small college to make his grievances plain. At little Rockford College in Illinois, the president, John Howard, asks student cooperation in reviewing the official statement of College Purpose. Next year little Rockford, at the undergraduates' request, will unveil a Policy Review Board consisting of faculty, student, and administrative representatives. Why couldn't such a mechanism be adopted at Behemoth U?

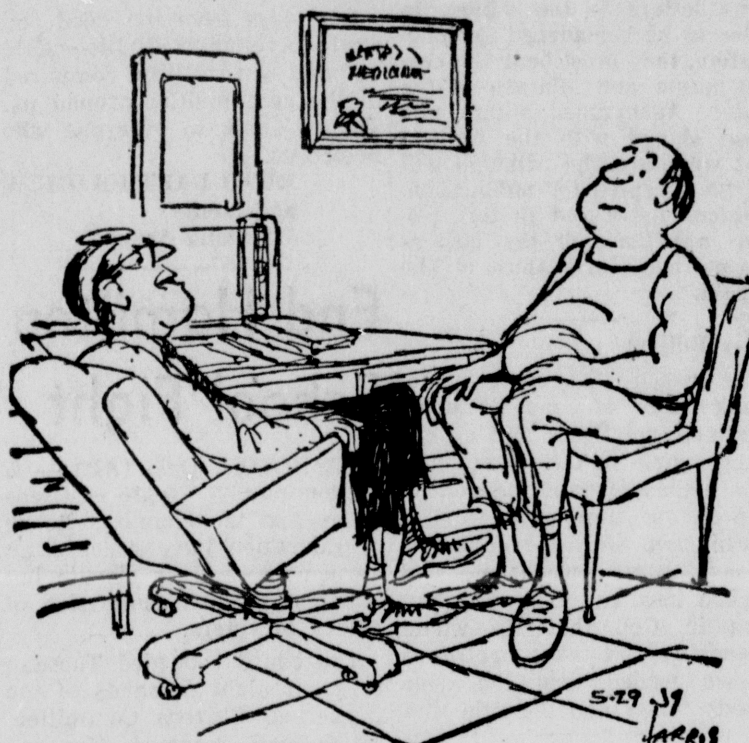

The boys and girls are right in sensing that modern college education is something of a fraud. They have been locked into the fraud because our great corporations stupidly insist on an A.B. degree when they are recruiting for higher echelon material. The government has conspired to impose a fraudulent sense of values on young people by drafting them to fight in a war which it has lacked the honesty and courage to declare. I happen to think that the war is for a good purpose. But you'd never know it from the way that Washington has chosen to fight it.

I am not for the Students for a Democratic Society; if they trusted me, I would consider myself an untrustworthy character. But I am for all those students who feel frustrated by their college experience without quite knowing that they have been deprived of contact with the full heritage of the civilization of the West.

Marriage License
Waiting Time Waived
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Dr. R. L. Schroeder, 83, and Anna Marie Jones, 16, both of Owensboro, Ky., applied for a marriage license Monday and asked the required three-day waiting period be waived.

Judge Rufus C. Kuykendall obliged. "I wanted to give them a chance for bliss at the earliest possibility," he said. The retired surgeon and his bride-to-be then left with the girl's mother.

A MR. KADISON, whose wife had already won two gold cups for being the worst automobile driver in Westchester, called his insurance adjuster to report another of her periodic mishaps.

"What happened THIS time?" asked the adjuster wearily. "As near as I can figure it," replied Mr. K., "she was backing out of our garage when she hit two trash cans, knocked over our TV antenna and the sauna bath, ruined my son Phil's bicycle—and then she lost control of the car."

"Marvin is so forgetful," complained a sales manager to his secretary. "It's a miracle that he remembers his name. I asked him to pick me up a pack of cigarettes on his way back from lunch, but I'm not even sure he'll remember to come back himself."

Just then Marvin dashed into the office and cried, "What a break, Boss! At lunch, I met old man Hess, who hasn't bought a penny's worth from us in five years and before we parted I talked him into a $200,000 order!" "What did I tell you?" sighed the sales manager. "He forgot the cigarettes!"

Noteworthy characters of the week include the cannibal mother who reprimanded her son, "How many times have I told you not to talk with someone in your mouth?" And the Houstonite so loaded with pelf that his son's piggy bank has four vice presidents.

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

What is the most common cause of swelling of the ankles? The frequency of the causes of swelling of the ankles and the legs is not nearly as important as the tracking down of the basic cause. The reasons for this condition are many. Some are of little importance, while others may have more serious significance.

The underlying mechanical reason for most swelling, or edema, is some interference with blood circulation. When once this is established, the initial reason for the change in circulation must then be sought. So wide is the range that the cause may vary from tight garters to a chronic heart condition.

Heart disease, chronic infections of the kidneys, severe varicose veins, are a few of the more important reasons for this condition. The character of the swelling and its duration after a period of rest with the feet elevated, is of extreme importance to the doctor who evaluates this disorder.

Just standing on one's feet at work for long periods of time may be an important cause. In the elderly, narrowing of the blood vessels due to arteriosclerosis may interfere with the blood circulation and produce swelling, especially towards the end of the day.

Only recently a physician made the astute observation that women who wore very tight girdles developed swelling of the legs because of interference with the return flow of blood through the veins.

That which is of utmost importance is that all swelling must not be neglected. Almost always the condition can be relieved after the cause has definitely been established.

Is there really an aging process that is now better understood scientifically? The process of aging is said to begin at birth. Actually, I believe the growth of a child into maturity does not really fall into the classification of aging.

It is now possible to predict at the age of 35, those who may be potential candidates for heart attacks. Diet, activity, exercise, tobacco and emotional tension are all a part of this health profile. If some of these factors can be controlled there is a good possibility that chronological age will be separated from that which is called the aging process.

Another interesting thing about those place names in Vietnam, points out the man at the next desk, is that no two television newscasters ever seem to pronounce them alike.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Wages and profits are rising. Only 3.5 per cent of the labor force is out of work. People have cash in the bank. Goods are heaped on department store counters.

For the well fed, well clothed, well rested American with a late model car and a comfortable apartment or house, the dark blue forecasts from some economists seem distant and contradictory.

Those Americans outside the poverty sector are living in physical comfort that never was more luxurious. The booming recreation business gives partial testimony to this.

In short, most Americans never had it so good. And that is one of the chief reasons why the administration's efforts to avert more financial troubles through a tax increase is stalled in Congress.

The weaknesses do exist, however, camouflaged by some of the very best times in American history.

Here are some of what are considered to be dangerous weaknesses in the economy.

—It is inflated. A wage-price spiral is turning faster by the month and could spin out of control. Wages are rising faster than productivity. And the prices of products and services are matching these wage increases.

Since wages have value only in relation to prices, or to what these wages can buy, the apparent improvement in the worker's position is evaporated in the heat of inflation. And business soon loses its price increases to higher wages.

The delusion is evident at all levels. Economists have forecast an increase of 7 to 8 per cent in the nation's production of goods and services this year. Then, with asterisks, they note that 3 1/2 to 4 per cent of this simply will be in rising prices.

For many years the United States has spent more abroad than it has collected from foreigners. But this resulted largely from American aid and military commitments and from American business investments abroad.

Now, however, the country is experiencing problems with its trade surplus. Although the value of exports rose sharply in the most recent month reported, a deficit in March, the first in five years, has raised some doubts about the chances of a strong, sustained improvement.

Administration attempts to correct the balance of payments situation have largely failed. Now inflation is helping to price American goods out of foreign market while whetting the American appetite for things foreign.

This causes increasing concern abroad that the American dollar is not worth its face value, that it is inflated, and that it should not be held as a reserve for conducting international financial affairs.

These are among the reasons why some economic critics believe future prospects are less comfortable than the present.

Garden Gossip and Helpful Hints

By MRS. E. P. HANSON
"The Lady by the Lake"

Sure wondered if there would be enough gardens left in Circleville to write about this week. We really have had the rains.

When the sun came out on Saturday it gave us such a beautiful day, every one who could, mowed their lawns. They will have to be cut again real soon as the grasses drink up the water and grow very quickly this time of the year.

The pretty hedge of white peonies at the Jack Miller farm on Highway 188 is very attractive. It has been protected with a rustic type fence. With such large white blooms it must afford the Millers with flowers for all occasions. The Miller farm has a typical early Pennsylvania Dutch barn with authentic designs printed yellow black, and white on a huge red barn.

The Emmet Barnhart home on Northridge Road is a never ending source of interesting flowers and shrubs. Situated on a corner as it is, it is not difficult to slowly ride by and look. Enjoy the scene that is portrayed. On both sides of the front steps at this time of the year are two topiary trees in green and a soft pale yellow. They were made by Mrs. Barnhart. Then down in front of and over to the sides are rhododendrons, in my flower book called Azalea Coral Pearce, a delicate, lovely pink. These are a rare color for this section of the country.

Both rhododendrons and azaleas are members of the rhododendron genus of the Heath family. There is no clear-cut way to tell all kinds of each apart.

There are so many lawns that are outstanding in Circleville and show the many hours that their owners put in each week. There is one that deserves mentioning is the lawn of the Shidakers at 129 Mingo. The flower beds are in keeping with the size of the lot. Most of us that know about this yard look forward to see what will be planted each year. The shrubs are rimmed neatly and the others, pink and purple. In hot weather that sound of running water will have a cooling effect on us all. As we travel on that side of Main Street, looking up and reading the temperature, it will not seem so warm.

It was a good thing I had driven to and from the hospital while it was nice the first part of the week, would never have noticed the yellow rose bush opening its buds. The bush grows at the edge of the driveway between the George Young home and the home Hardens have on North Pickaway. It is an old fashioned rose bush. With the many greens of all shades from the many textured rees and the deep reds of the maples, it is a stand-out.

Coming out of church Sunday Mrs. Fred Brown stopped me and said her Columbine were so big and beautiful. It is such satisfaction when some one grows such flowers as these, and to have them be nice as they are this year. We really have had perfect weather for growing ideal flowers this spring. Now we have had too much of a good thing, but before the summer is over we will probably want and need more rain.

The two beauty bushes that stand guard in front of the William Goodchild home on Beverly Drive are magnificent species of this bush. Mrs. Goodchild and your editor do not know the proper name, or what name to look for in the garden books.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rader on Route 3 were working in their rose garden, as we were passing by, could not help but notice how well kept is their yard. With the stately pines which are of the blue spruce family add so much to their farm home at the edge of the city.

Tomorrow is Decoration Day, a lot of you people will be out watching the parade, so look around and see all the lovely flowers and yards as you pass by.

Keep on using the litter boxes with the flood now, we can all see the importance of keeping trash, debris and litter cleaned up at all times.

Realizing how many people were hit by the rains there did not seem there would be enough information and interesting items to make a column this week. This only proves that Circleville residents really are some of the most avid gardeners in a large area. Promise to keep on looking and reporting on what is growing and blooming as the days go by.

Urge Change In Funding For Cities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The local government fun is in need of a complete overhaul," said the chairman of a legislative committee which began studies Monday of distributing money to local government.

Sen. Michael J. Maloney, Cincinnati Republican and chairman of an 11-member committee looking into county budget commission operations, called for complete revision of local government fund distribution, which totaled $704 million last year.

"It may take more than one session of the Legislature to accomplish it," Maloney said.

The committee also is studying problems of funding the new statewide police and firemen pension system.

His committee and another headed by Rep. Allen J. Bartunek R-54 Cleveland, dealing with pensions, plan to make recommendations for consideration by the 1969 general Assembly.

Leroy B. Parks Jr., Cleveland actuary, said studies showed that liabilities totaled $496 million when the state absorbed 453 local pension funds April 1, 1966. He said assets totaled $76 million, leaving $420 million in accrued liabilities.

By the time fund payments start in 1969, under a year's postponement by the Legislature the fund indebtedness will grow from $420 to $435 million, Parks estimated.

State Auditor Roger Cloud has said funding could be about 50 per cent without endangering benefits.

NOODLES — A group of ladies from Lockbourne Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, look over a portion of over 100 pounds of homemade noodles that have been prepared for a Chicken and Ham Dinner to be held Saturday, June 8, at the Hamilton Twp. Local Daughters of Union Veterans Care for City's War Dead Cemetery

By MARION SINES

Toward the back of Forest Cemetery is what is now known as Soldier's Glen. When the first fighting men were buried there it was called the Grand Army Plot. For many years the Daughters of Union Veterans cared for the lot and placed a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier.

In 1934 Mrs. Ernie Tolbert of 160 Walnut St., was the president of the local Tent. Through her efforts her husband and James Smallwood were instrumental in erecting a simulated Fort upon which they mounted a cannon used by the Union Veterans and four of their cannon balls were placed at each corner.

The Tent purchased peony plants which were planted at each grave and at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. For many years they have bloomed on Memorial Day in tribute to the men who fought and died for their country.

The DUV was begun by five young ladies of Massillon who believed there should be a patriotic organization honoring their fathers and brothers who were soldiers. William McKinley, a major at that time, assisted in the organization of the group. It was chartered May 30, 1885, as National Alliance, Daughters of Union Veterans.

Many Civic projects were undertaken by the local Tent. Such as the first flag and pole at Berger Hospital, furnishing flags for churches and Boy Scout Troops, donations to the Christmas lighting program, assisting with the Row of Remembrance of old Route 23, other gifts to the hospital and many patriotic endeavors.

The remaining members of the Tent feel they are no longer capable of fulfilling the obligations as they have in the past and are now disbanding. They will surrender their charter in June. What money they have in the treasury will be given to charity. However they plan to continue to place the wreath at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier by their personal contributions.

The Daughters of the American Revolution have consented to maintain Soldiers Glen. So from the hands of one patriotic organization to another goes the task of keeping the lot beautiful.

Members of the DAR repaired the Fort, painted the cannon and cleaned out brush and debris on the lot last week.

Several years ago members of the American Legion Post 134, separated the peony plants and placed the halves on the new lot across the drive in the glen. All the plants are beginning to bloom and on Memorial Day the lots will be beautiful with white, pink, red and variegated flowers in all their glory. All this was made possible by the DUV because they wished to honor the men who fought for freedom for all men.

RETIREMENT — Mrs. Georgia Walker (left), executive secretary of the Pickaway County Unit of the American Cancer Society, attended the testimonial dinner for Mrs. Evelyn Ankrom (right) who is retiring after 12 years as executive secretary of the Ross County Unit, recently at Holiday Inn, Chillicothe.

Dear Abby: Girl 'Ticketed' for Overtime 'Parking'

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and my boy friend is 19. We sometimes will come home from a movie or something and we will sit in his car for a while. We sit right in front of my house, Abby. If we wanted to neck up a storm, we could go park on a lonely road, couldn't we? I am not saying we have never exchanged a kiss once in a while but it's no big make-out session. We talk mostly.

We don't do anything in the car we wouldn't do in the house, but my mother says she doesn't want us out there—even talking. She says the neighbors are getting their eyes full and I am ruining my reputation. I could care less what the neighbors say as my conscience is clear. I would like your opinion.

NOTHING TO HIDE
DEAR NOTHING: As long as you don't do anything in the car that you wouldn't do in the house, do it in the house. A girl has only one reputation, so take care that yours is as clear as your conscience.

DEAR ABBY: Your advice is desperately needed if my wedding is to be a joyous occasion next month.

My father is dead and my mother insists that I have my brother walk me down the aisle and give me away.

Abby, I do not want my brother to walk me down the aisle as he drinks heavily, is foul-mouthed, ill-mannered, and he spoils every gathering he attends with his crudeness. He has no friends except a few drinking bums like himself.

I am marrying a fine man whose family lives out of town, and they are coming here for our wedding. I suppose every family has a skeleton in their closet, but I don't wish to put mine on display. I am paying for my own wedding and don't want it spoiled.

My mother has made excuses for my brother all his life, and now she tells me if I don't have him give me away she will not attend my wedding. Please help me decide what to do.

TORN
DEAR TORN: It's your wedding and it should be your day, and think your mother is being unfair by putting you in the position of having to make such a difficult choice. Ask your clergyman to talk to her. If she is firm in her refusal to attend your wedding unless you ask your brother to give you away, you would be justified in telling your mother that you don't want your wedding spoiled by him, but you want with all your heart to have her there, and the rest is up to her.

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for "not ready"—the young married woman who wasn't ready for a family, but was made to feel it was her "duty."

Her letter could have been written by me, except our reasons for waiting are financial. If we both work another five years we will have our mortgage paid off and will

'Galloping Swede' Hits Trail Again

By WICK TEMPLE
Associated Press Writer

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Hugo Aronson, the "Galloping Swede" who rose from penniless immigrant to governor of Montana, is galloping down the campaign trail again at the age of 76.

The big, strong Swede who still speaks English with a heavy accent, is roaming Montana's vast mountains and plains trying to obtain the Republican gubernatorial nomination for his friend, Lt. Gov. Ted James.

Aronson also is Richard M. Nixon's Montana campaign chairman despite the fact that Nixon has endorsed James' opponent, Gov. Tim Babcock in Montana's June 4 GOP primary. Aronson is just as rough and tough as in the days when he bounced oil trucks labeled "The Galloping Swede" down dusty depression oilfield roads in the 1930s.

"I thought maybe the name of J. Hugo Aronson might be getting worn out like an old shawl," he said. "But when I got to campaigning I found the people are just as kind to this immigrant boy as they ever were."

The grand old man of Montana politics still expresses disbelief at what has happened to him since he stepped off a boat from Sweden in 1911 at the age of 20 with $25 in his pocket and an English vocabulary that consisted of three words: "Ham and eggs."

He worked in Boston until he picked up enough English to order something else to eat. Then he rode freight trains across 38 states until, on a hot July day in 1914, a brakeman kicked him out of a boxcar in the southern Montana town of Columbus.

"Columbus discovered America and I discovered Columbus," Aronson said.

He parked his clothes on a fence and went for a swim in the icy Yellowstone River, only to emerge to find a mule chewing up his pants. He wandered into town in rags and somehow wrangled a farm job pitching hay.

From there he went to the Montana-Wyoming border where he established a home-stand on which he still pays taxes. He got into the oil business, building rigs, and figured out a way to move 85-foot derricks without dismantling them. That was a milestone in the industry.

After armed service in World War I, Aronson moved to the booming northern Montana oilfields around Cut Bank. He got his nickname because he ran as he worked, and his oil business flourished. He started his own company and founded the oil towns of Oilmont, Gallup City and Santa Rita. He became president of a bank in Cut Bank and bought a 4,000-acre ranch, but continued rig building, trucking, pipelining.

In 1934 he was elected to the Cut Bank City Council, then in 1938 to the Montana House, and in 1944 to the state Senate.

"When they wanted me to run for governor, I told them I didn't have the qualifications," he said. But he ran in 1951 and won, and won another four-year term in 1955.

Since his retirement from active politics in 1960, he has lived on the shore of Flathead Lake in northwestern Montana, but he can't get off the campaign trail. He feels Nixon will be nominated and will be the next president.

"This 'Galloping Swede' is

SAILING TO JOIN PACIFIC FLEET—Before leaving on a cruise to join the Pacific Fleet, the USS New Jersey fires a broadside in gun calibration tests in the Atlantic off Norfolk, Va.

Military Academy Cadets Have Well-Planned Meals

By DEE WEDEMEYER
Associated Press Writer
WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) —

That trim, well-conditioned cadet at the U.S. Military Academy consumes more calories than a combat soldier—and almost twice as many as a civilian.

He and his 3,200 West Point classmates annually go through 135,000 loaves of bread, 80,000 pies and cakes, 800,000 cups of ice cream, tons of meat and vegetables and more peanut butter than you'd care to count the calories for.

The academy's menu board does the calorie counting for the cadet, and each one averages between 4,500 and 5,000 calories per day.

"Five thousand calories seems like an awful lot but believe me these cadets run it off," says Maj. Jerry L. Hearn, officer in charge of the cadet mess.

When the day begins at 6 a.m. and includes a required athletic program in the afternoon, the calories go very fast. As the dietitians figure it, a cadet uses up 4 calories per pound of weight per hour of running; 4.5 calories, swimming; 1 calorie, typing and even .7 calories eating.

Cadets gain or lose as much as 20 pounds when they arrive as freshmen, but after about two months the weight-gaining evens out. They end up with an average gain of eight pounds for the entire four years.

"Nutritionally, with 5,000 calories, you can't miss," said Capt. Bonnie Moscatelli, the chief of food services division at the academy's hospital and a member of the menu board. The real problem she said, is pleasing the individual tastes of 3,200 cadets who have "immature stomachs."

Pizza and steak are their favorites, with asparagus, brussel sprouts and liver at the opposite end of the popularity scale.

A big event for the cadets is the traditional Wednesday steak night.

"If I didn't have steak on Wednesday night," said Hearn,

Asbestosis Appearing In Workers

CINCINNATI (AP) — A new lung disease is appearing in medical records. Known as asbestosis it produces permanent damage and affects principally asbestos insulation workers and wallboard makers.

Dr. Benjamin Felson, radiology director of the University of Cincinnati Medical Center, said the disease causes the lung to lose its flexibility—vital to breathing.

But asbestosis is not a common disease viewed in relations to the total population, he said. But it is a major occupational hazard particular to workers who put insulation on pipes.

Dr. Felson, recently returned from a radiology conference in England with medical representatives from several countries, said reports showed that persons exposed constantly to asbestos also have a higher rate of cancer of the lung.

"I'd have a riot on my hands."

On a typical Wednesday the cadets begin the day with chilled apricot halves, assorted dry cereals with light cream, scrambled eggs, crisp bacon, hashed brown potatoes, hot raisin muffins, toast, butter assorted jams and jellies coffee and milk.

For lunch, they might be served pork, chow mein with mushrooms and bean sprouts, steamed rice, fried noodles, cottage cheese, jubilee salad, bread, butter, pineapple, sheet cake with butter cream icing, iced orangeade and milk.

With their sirloin steak for dinner they get french fried potatoes, buttered succotash, chef's salad bowl, garlic bread and butter, blueberry pie a la mode, coffee, iced tea and milk.

U.S. Given Going-Over By Foreign Commentators

LONDON (AP) — The United States got a going over in the world press last week, with foreign pundits accusing Americans of lack of interest in events abroad and lack of knowledge about poverty at home.

John Pilger, roving reporter of the London Daily Mirror, came to the conclusion that "to be poor in America is to be un-American."

"To most middle-class Americans, the poor and their distress are unknown," said Pilger. "If an ordinary white family is not eating its fill, then the cause is obviously drink or lack of ambition..."

Louis Heren of the Times of London finds that the American presidency makes sense "only when it is seen to be a latter-day version of a British medieval monarchy...as it existed for a century or more after the signing of the Magna Carta in 1215."

Dail Sketch writer Sarah Drummond decided after a visit to New York that "New York girls aren't a patch on London girls fashionwise."

"They dress to conventionally, and all too like momma," she said. "Who wants to look elegant at 18?"

West Germany's Frankfurter Rundschau denounced the recent rejection by the U.S. Senate of a proposal to ban mail order sales of rifles and shotguns.

Citing the assassinations of John F. Kennedy and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the paper charged that a powerful arms lobby sways legislators in Congress and manages to shelve attempts to place tighter control on the sale of firearms.

Japanese correspondent Shumon Miura after a recent swing through the United States, declared that American newspapers were "shockingly indifferent to events outside their own shores."

Writing in Asahi Shimbun, Miura said: "The moment I arrived in a small U.S. town for a two-months' visit I became dissatisfied with local newspapers, principally their small attention to big international news."

4 More Ohioans Dead in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Vietnam war has claimed the lives of four more Ohioans, the Defense Department said Tuesday.

Marine Lance Cpl. Denver J. Berkheimer of Streetsboro and Army Cpl. Danny Hoskins of Trenton were killed in action. Army S. Sgt. Jerry D. Wright of Dennison was changed from missing to dead of hostile causes. Army Pfc. Joseph D. Rutter Jr. of Marietta died as a result of nonhostile action.

THE WORLD'S BIGGEST FLAG, 235 feet long and 104 feet wide, is being put in readiness in Detroit to hang down front of Hudson's department store there on Flag Day, June 14. A woman is stretched out doing repair work on one of the six-foot stars. The stripes are eight feet wide. It takes a crew of 55 to unfurl this Old Glory.

Urge Kent State Instructor Be Given Wants

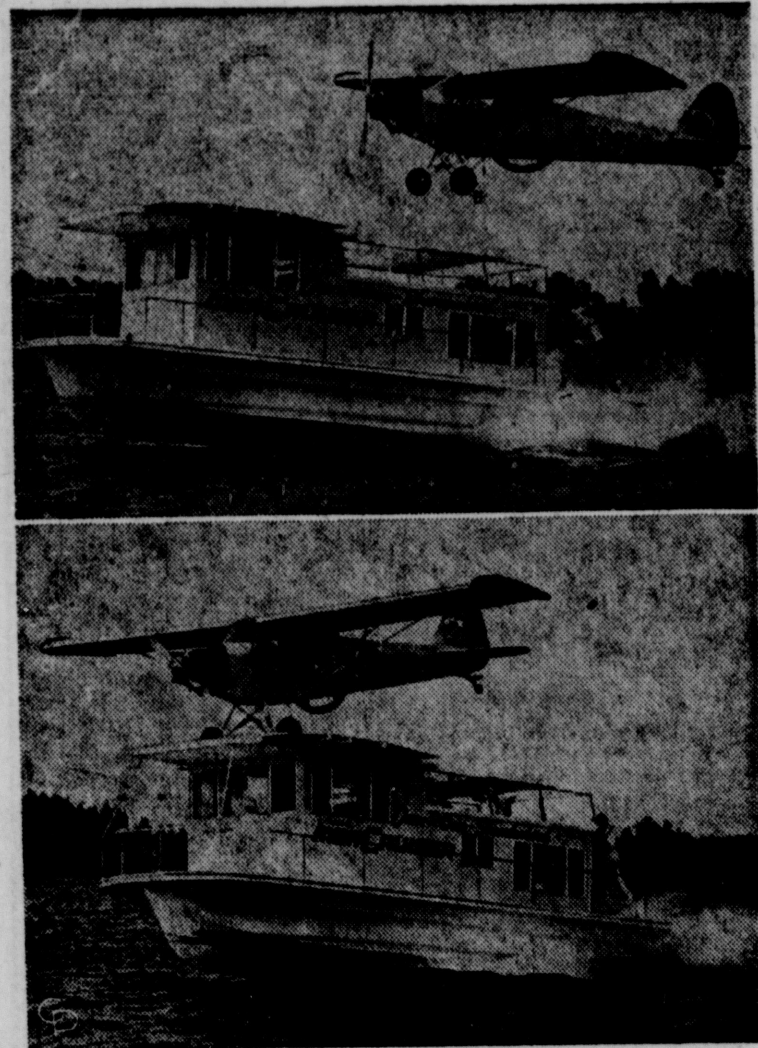

KENT, Ohio (AP)—The Kent State University Faculty Senate wants Spanish instructor Robert L. Pitts to reconsider his resignation, which was followed this week by Negro student demonstrations.

The Faculty Senate urged Tuesday also that provision should be made for Pitts, a Negro, to devote a larger portion of his time to student counseling.

Pitts resigned last week, turning down an offer of a 20 percent pay boost to $8,200 a year. Pitts reportedly had asked $10,000, including a full-time teachers' pay and part-time pay for counseling.

The senate held a special session to consider the matter after up to 100 students staged a peaceful, 15-hour sit-in in university facilities.

NEW YORK (AP) — "CBS Reports," in an illuminating and sometimes dismaying inspection of merchandising techniques used to sell a political candidate, neatly peeled off the veneer of an old American institution.

The hour program Tuesday night opened with a quote from Leonard Hall, a former chairman of the Republican National Committee, that "you sell your candidates and programs the way a business sells its products."

It concluded with Eric Sevareid stating that the sales techniques "are probably not evil in themselves, only evil men could make them that, but they can be misleading."

There was a fascinating film study of the behind-the-scenes activity during the campaign a year ago of Sol Wachtler, 37, Republican candidate for the $30,000-a-year post of county executive of Nassau, a large residential area on Long Island.

Efforts were shown to raise funds, to stimulate interest, to get publicity. Professional politicians explained frankly that the candidate was chosen on the basis of specific selling points, including his age, looks and ethnic background.

Most interesting to the average voter-viewer, however, was the portion showing activities of the public relations experts called into develop the right image for the candidate.

He was instructed how to dress—"You can't come on as a gentleman—even, on occasion, the tie off . . . and no cufflinks." He was instructed to forget the cameras.

His advisors sat around discussing his slogan, his theme and his conduct as if he were an inanimate object. At one point the candidate complained almost wistfully that "sometimes I find myself rebelling against their advice—even though I know its good advice—because I resent the fact that they're trying to market me as a product."

Wachtler, as it turned out, lost the election to the Democratic incumbent although it was a spirited campaign and a close race.

It was a valuable program for the viewer and succeeded in showing some of the nuts and

The 50th annual Saltcreek Alumni banquet was held Saturday at the school, honoring members of the class of 1918 and 1943.

Present from the class of 1918 were Mrs. George Rihl, Laurelville; Howard Hinton, Columbus; Elna Timberlake, Gallipolis; Miss Leona Hedges and Mrs. Kelly Hinton, Laurelville.

Nelson Jones introduced the class of 1943. Those present were Mrs. Carl Fry, Amanda; Mrs. Max Cotterman, Prospect Heights, Ill.; William Minshall, Gallipolis; Mrs. Roy Roli, Hallsville; Donald Fortner, Reynoldsburg.

OFFICERS elected for the year 1969 are Mary Fraumelter, president; Don Strous, vice president; Ruth Mary McCabe, secretary-treasurer.

The alumni voted unanimously to restore the alumni pictures on the walls of the school. Photos of graduating classes were removed a few years ago.

Don Strous, Don DeLong and Don Maxson were appointed by the president to take care of the pictures. The alumni also voted to buy dishes with any surplus money in the treasury.

Toastmaster for the evening was Charles Jones, class of 1950.

William Rihl played a piano solo and a medley of old favorites. Judson Beougher gave a brief history of Saltcreek School and Mrs. Loring Leist presented a poem for the program.

DAR ES SALAAM Tanzania (AP) — The former professor eyed suspiciously the door of a hotel suite.

"I may be killed any day—but there will be victory," said Eduardo Mondlane, 47-year-old leader of an East African group seeking to wrest Mozambique from Portuguese rule.

The odds are against him, but he is used to overcoming odds. His Front for the Liberation of Mozambique, Frelimo, went into action in 1964 with 250 armed men. Today it claims to be able to field a force of 10,000 men—and to have knocked out 6,000 Portuguese troops. But Frelimo is not without inside stresses.

OSU Fire Said Deliberately Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state fire marshal's office said Tuesday that last Wednesday's fire in an Ohio State University dormitory "was a set fire, but no motive has been established."

One coed died in the fire in OSU's high rise Lincoln Tower dormitory. Fifteen were hospitalized and one remained in critical condition.

Terry Drake, deputy state fire marshal, said one team of investigators would interview witnesses about the fire and another team would comb the fire scene for more evidence.

Mondlane is a native of Mozambique who was educated in South Africa and at Harvard and once taught anthropology at Syracuse University in New York.

The Portuguese admit to having an army of 42,000 in Mozambique. Mondlane says the figure is closer to 65,000. "It is not the soldiers we are concerned about; it is the airplanes," he says, adding that anti-aircraft weapons are expected soon.

His group claims control of the northern province of Niassa — "We control the border. The Portuguese army is in garrison and come and go by air," Mondlane says. He says he was in Mozambique in mid-May and his men also are active in the provinces of Cabo Delgado, Tete and Zambezia.

Arms come from sympathetic countries, including Communist China, the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia as well as African countries offering British and Belgian weapons.

Baseball Leagues Divided On Wave of the Future

CHICAGO (AP) — The American and National leagues of baseball, bitter rivals on and off the field for nearly seven decades, have fought their way into separate systems of operation.

The American League Tuesday approved a two-division league under the banner of progress and the National League, resorting to tradition, remained a one-division league of 12 teams including newcomers Montreal and San Diego.

Both leagues, who will be called into a joint session by Commissioner William Eckert within six weeks, ended their meetings Tuesday, firmly convinced each is on the right path towards the good of the game, the fans and the players.

The AL next year will have an Eastern Division represented by Boston, New York, Baltimore, Washington, Cleveland and Detroit. The Western Division will be made up of Chicago, Minnesota, Kansas City, Oakland, Seattle and California.

They will play a 156-game schedule with the winners of each division meeting in a best-of-5 playoff to determine the World Series representative.

Divisional teams will meet each other 18 times with a 9-9 home-and-road breakdown and then will face members of the other division 11 times a year with a 6-5 home-and-road breakdown. The latter will be reversed to 5-6 every other year to balance home and road games.

CHS Athletes Honored at Spring Banquet

Members of the Circleville High School baseball, track and golf teams were honored Tuesday at the Booster Club sponsored spring sports banquet in the high school cafeteria.

Singled out by the respective coaches for "Most Valuable Player" honors were Rick Congrove, baseball; Daryl Brown, track; Bill Adkins, golf.

Also receiving special honors were Rod Sines, who won the pole vault in the South Central Ohio League track meet, Mel Smith, winner of the two mile run in the league meet; George Hill, All-SCO right fielder.

These athletes, along with Congrove, were presented Stouge Club trophies by Bob Tootle, president of the sports oriented high school organization.

CONGROVE was the baseball team's most valuable player last year. He has been chosen All-League second baseman for three consecutive years.

Daryl Brown set a new school record in the mile run. He and Congrove are both seniors.

Adkins, a junior, was the number one man on the golf squad. Although he had a mid-season slump, he lowered his average nine-hole score to 41 this year.

There was no speaker at the banquet. Coaches Chuck Hill, baseball; Jim Lint, track; Steve Brudzinski, golf; introduced the members of their respective squads and commented on the league season.

Jerry Leist served as master of ceremonies of the banquet. The welcome was presented by Robert Liston, Booster Club president.

The Rev. Eugene Flowers presented the invocation and the benediction.

Youth Baseball Play Is Delayed One Week

The Circleville Youth Baseball Program has been delayed one week to June 10 because of flood damage to diamonds at Ted Lewis Park and at the Fairgrounds.

The first week of action will be made up during the season, it was announced by William Thomas, Circleville Youth Baseball president.

The schedule for the season has been completed.

Joe Torre Fined In Traffic Cases

ATLANTA (AP) — Guilty pleas on charges of drunken driving and speeding have resulted in $175 fines and two suspended jail sentences for Atlanta Braves catcher Joe Torre.

Torre, 27, pleaded guilty to the charges Monday in state traffic court. He received an eight-month suspended sentence and a $125 fine for driving under the influence and a three-month suspended sentence and $50 fine for speeding.

Set More Paris Tennis Matches

PARIS (AP) — More first-round matches were on tap today in the strike-plagued Paris Open Tennis Championships.

Air and train traffic into the city was at a standstill because of the nationwide work stoppage.

Joe Cronin, president of the American League, said his league was in complete harmony on the divisional breakdown.

"You can't sell a 12th place club," said Cronin. "Who wants a lot of second division clubs? The commissioner's job is to have both leagues ready to start the World Series at his discretion, and we will be ready."

"We're a lot of little, quiet guys who are progressive," continued Cronin. "You have to look ahead 20 years and not just next year. Our teams will retain their rivalries and create new ones under the divisional system."

The National League, having expanded to 12 teams only the previous night, appeared totally unprepared to meet the American League plan of two divisions and remained adamant for tradition.

"We don't believe in a playoff system because of the tradition and history of baseball," said President Warren Giles.

"A playoff system would be in contradiction to these traditions," said Giles. "You can have teams finishing fourth or fifth percentage-wise and then playing the champion of the other league in the World Series."

"We do not believe the public will accept this," he continued. "The World Series is the greatest event in sports and it is dangerous to tamper with it."

Forward Pass Eyes Future

NEW YORK (AP) — Trainer Henry Forrest knocked on wood for continued good fortune for Forward Pass. A few hours later the luckless racing career of Dancer's Image ended.

Forrest performed his wood-knocking ritual Tuesday while on his way to watch Forward Pass gallop, and it occurred after the veteran trainer told an observer that all was going well in preparation for Saturday's Belmont Stakes.

Near noon, Peter Fuller, owner of Dancer's Image, appeared before a group of newsmen in the Belmont Park stewards' theater and said:

"It is with tremendous regret that I announce that Dancer's Image has run his last race. He will not be able to start in the Belmont."

Bengals To Play Jets in Memphis

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals will wind up their exhibition season in Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 30 by playing the New York Jets.

The game will be played in Memphis' new Memorial Stadium which seats 50,160 and will come just a week before the Bengals open their first AFL season at San Diego.

Le Mans Race Off

LE MANS, France (AP) — The 24-hour Le Mans auto race, originally scheduled for June 15-16, was postponed indefinitely Tuesday because of the social upheaval in France.

Piston-Engine Drivers Eye Indy Victory

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Thirty drivers of old fashioned piston-engine race cars wound up preliminaries today for Thursday's 52nd 500-mile auto race, by no means conceding the event to three other pilots of favored Lotus turbine cars.

Gordon Johncock of Hastings, Mich., one of the faster qualifiers in a conventional car, predicted a turbocharged Offenhauser would win the race. He has one.

A. J. Foyt Jr. of Houston, last year's winner who is shooting for an unprecedented fourth 500-mile victory, was on record as thinking the Pratt & Whitney powerplants were "a year away."

However, the consensus around Gasoline Alley was that the turbines of Joe Leonard, San Jose, Calif.; Graham Hill, London, England, and Art Pollard, Medford, Ore., couldn't be beaten if they held together and didn't run into extremely hot weather.

No heat wave which could cripple turbine efficiency, was in sight.

Which turbine might finish first was a matter of heated opinion.

The situation was about the same as last year, except that Pamela Jones had the single turbine car in the race. Foyt stayed in the same lap but couldn't catch him until a $6 bearing failed in the turbine's gearbox with 7 1/2 miles to go and Foyt sailed past.

The '67 race also was unique in that five cars piled up just as Foyt approached the finish line and he was the only finisher.

Hill is riding a winning wave, with victories last Sunday in the Grand Prix of Monaco and two weeks earlier in the Spanish Grand Prix.

Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N.M., sharing the front row Thursday with Leonard and Hill, has won the last three races on the U.S. Auto Club's championship circuit.

Ware and Harris Tangle Saturday

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Bob Ware and Jim Harris, the state's fastest schoolboy stars, tangle again Saturday when more than 150 runners and jumpers vie for honors at the fifth annual Ohio Track Classic.

Mansfield Malabar's all-weather track will be the setting when the 16-event program unfurls at 1:45 p. m.

Landry Inks Pact With Detroit Lions

DETROIT (AP) — Massachusetts quarterback Greg Landry, top draft choice of the Detroit Lions, signed a National Football League contract Tuesday.

Terms of the contract were not made public but the Lions reportedly had to bid high for Landry's services to outduel Montreal of the Canadian Football League.

The Alouettes reportedly offered the 21-year-old Landry a long-term, no-cut contract with additional fringe benefits.

Minnesota Wins, 3-1, in 1st Inning

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland's Sonny Siebert and Bill Rohr pitched seven hitless innings against Minnesota, but their combined effort was sort of like locking the barn after the horse escaped.

Siebert and Rohr didn't yield a hit from the second through the eighth innings Tuesday night at Minnesota, but the Twins touched Siebert for three in the first when they scored all of their runs in a 3-1 victory.

In other American League action, Oakland edged Boston 3-1.

Detroit topped California 4-1 and Baltimore nipped the Chicago White Sox 2-1 in 10 innings at Milwaukee. The Washington at New York game was rained out.

Minnesota got its first four batters on base against Siebert in the first. John Roseboro doubled and scored on Rod Carew's single. After Harmon Killebrew walked, Tony Oliva doubled in Carew and Killebrew scored on Rich Reese's sacrifice fly.

Siebert then stopped the Twins until the seventh when Rohr took over to complete the nice-going-but-too-late job.

Cleveland scored in the top of the first on Lee Maye's single, a fielder's choice and Tony Horton's double. May and Horton each got three of the seven hits off Jim Perry, who was bailed out of an eighth-inning jam by Al Worthington. It was Worthington's 10th save of the season.

Jim Lonborg, the Cy Young Award winner who broke a leg in a skiing accident, made his first appearance of the season in Boston's losing effort against Oakland.

The big Red Sox right-hander, who was reactivated last week-end, came in two men out and one out in the sixth and got out of the jam. He also pitched the seventh, yielding one hit and no runs.

Ken Harrelson homered for Boston in the second, but Oakland came back with two runs on Jim Pagliaroni's blast in the bottom of the inning.

Minnesota got its first four batters on base against Siebert in the first. John Roseboro doubled and scored on Rod Carew's single. After Harmon Killebrew walked, Tony Oliva doubled in Carew and Killebrew scored on Rich Reese's sacrifice fly.

Siebert then stopped the Twins until the seventh when Rohr took over to complete the nice-going-but-too-late job.

Cleveland scored in the top of the first on Lee Maye's single, a fielder's choice and Tony Horton's double. May and Horton each got three of the seven hits off Jim Perry, who was bailed out of an eighth-inning jam by Al Worthington. It was Worthington's 10th save of the season.

John, who allowed only two hits in eight innings, strained a hamstring muscle in his right leg when he fell, and rolled over at base while attempting to avoid a tag.

The Athletics also scored in the sixth on two walks and Joe Rudi's double.

Detroit broke loose for four runs against California's George Brunet in the first, inning. Bill Frehan doubled in the first two runs and then scored on Willie Horton's homer.

California got its run in the bottom of the first on two walks and Rick Reichardt's single.

A crowd of 18,748 at Milwaukee saw Baltimore win on Paul Blair's leadoff homer against Hoyt Wilhelm in the 10th.

Baltimore took a 2-0 lead in the third when Curt Blefary was hit by a Tommy John pitch and Curt Motton homered. Chicago scored in the fourth on Luis Aparicio's single, a balk, fly ball and wild pitch. The White Sox tied it in the fifth on Duane Josephson's homer.

Chevrolet gives you a lot more for a lot less.

The roomiest 4-door sedan anywhere near its price

Automotive News rates Chevrolet the roomiest sedan in its field. Roomier, in fact, than any other American car except one high-priced luxury sedan.

Owner Ends Race Career For 'Image'

NEW YORK (AP) — Dancer's Image, the disqualified winner of the 1968 Kentucky Derby, has finished his racing career, his owner Peter Fuller of Boston announced today.

Fuller, in a statement at Belmont Park, said:

"It is with tremendous regret that I announce that Dancer's Image has run his last race.

"He will not be able to start in the Belmont Stakes on Saturday. He did not come out of his work in good shape yesterday."

"After a conference this morning with Dr. Grand regarding his right ankle, I have decided to retire him. Dancer's Image is too honest and game a horse to allow him to race in the Belmont and not be in perfect physical condition to give his best."

"He will be unwound at my Runnymede Farm in North Hampton, N.H. while I consider many offers I have received to his syndication."

It had been learned earlier that the jinxed colt of the 3-year-old division was being withdrawn from Saturday's $100,000 added Belmont Stakes at Belmont Park.

Nothing has gone right for Dancer's Image, the sore-ankled, popular son of the great Native Dancer, since he won the Wood Memorial at Aqueduct on April 22.

He was disqualified after winning the Kentucky Derby on May 4 and two weeks later lost his third-place purse in the Preakness on another disqualification.

And today in London, Lloyd's, the international insurance agency said it has canceled a $1.5 million insurance policy on the thoroughbred.

Jim Dooley New Bears Head Coach

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Dooley, a 38-year-old businesslike chap with horned rimmed glasses, Tuesday succeeded George Halas as coach of the Chicago Bears.

Halas, 73-year-old National Football League pioneer and the only owner the Bears have had, stepped down as head coach after 39 years at the job Monday.

Dooley followed his surprising announcement of quitting the coaching ranks by his not surprising selection of Dooley as his successor.

Dooley has been a member of the Bears for 16 years. A graduate of Miami, Fla., Dooley became a star receiver with the Bears before becoming a coach and gradually worked his way up as Halas' No. 1 aide.

Dooley, who started out as an end coach, became their assistant to the job two years ago when he replaced George Allen as defensive coach. Allen had left the Bears under a court-challenged protest by Halas to become head coach of the Los Angeles Rams.

Dooley introduced such defensive tactics as flip-flopping tackles and last year came up with the "Dooley shift" in which a fifth defensive back was used as a linebacker in long passing situations.

Having molded the Bears defense as one of the best in the league, Dooley last February was named the No. 1 offensive coach to shore up some new tactics which Halas last winter announced as "total offense."

Something To Think About . . . Battle of Dieting

By JEAN CRIST

Dieting could be defined as the situation that exists when two little fellows called "I will" and "I won't" get into the ring together and start sparring.

"I will" is the good guy who is trying to help the individual form better eating habits and "I won't" is the guy who has encouraged bad eating habits to the point that the person has 20 extra pounds they would like to be rid of.

The fight always starts with a lot of enthusiasm and support for "I will". His ideas are so good and he is so clean and strong-looking he gives the appearance of a sure winner. Metacal, low-calorie soft drinks and lettuce by the basket are put in his corner with his white robe of purity and confident smile, you feel he can't lose.

Meanwhile back at the other corner sits the nasty, smug little fellow called "I won't". He knows the crowd isn't for him and he doesn't try to win their support because he knows from past experiences he already has the edge on his opponent. For his corner is loaded with luscious, tempting desserts and mounds of fluffy mashed potatoes and hot, buttered corn on the cob. He's fought with a lot of these newcomers and knows they always come on strong but not many can ever win.

The bell rings and the contest begins. "I will" comes on strong in the first round. His mistress attends a bridge club and resists everything but a cup of coffee, telling her friends she is on a diet. They admire her willpower and this builds her confidence in herself. She even gets through dinner of fruit salad and one small piece of chicken while the rest of the family has a full meal and dessert which she has prepared.

This goes on for several days and she is beginning to wonder why she thought dieting would be so difficult.

ABOUT that time "I won't" gives "I will" a good belt right between the eyes. The washer breaks down with four loads of clothes waiting to be washed, the two-year-old falls and gets a large bump on the head, the 11 year-old girl argues she just has to wear hose to school because everyone else does and her husband comes home growling because the deal he had cooking didn't pan out. After her dinner of more lettuce and a piece of fish she stares at that big piece of chocolate cake and never wanted anything any more in her whole life. But "I will" gets up off the mat and she puts the cake in the cupboard untouched.

Rounds two and three go by with "I won't" in control of the situation. He teases "I will" biding his time until he is ready to deliver the knock-out punch. Our heroine sticks to her diet, but her heart is no longer in

8 More Ohioans Viet Casualties

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department identified seven more Ohioans Monday as victims of recent fighting in Vietnam.

Three were Marines: Lance Cpl. John H. Halman Jr., Ash-tabula; Pfc. Harold B. T. Baylor, Columbus, and Pfc. George Thomas, Cincinnati.

Two Army men identified were Pfc. Angel L. Sanchez, Lorain and Sgt. Lawrence G. Reno, Cincinnati.

Two Army men were changed from missing to dead of hostile causes: Pfc. Jerry A. Bock-brader, Perrysburg, and Pfc. Ronald L. Wigfield, New Philadelphia.

The Pentagon said Army Cpl. Michael A. Bailey, Urbana, died of nonhostile causes.

once a woman has made up her mind to something, look out! The weeks rolled by and with her new attitude that she was working toward something worth the effort and ridding herself of a bad habit and not simply depriving herself of things she wanted, she made rapid progress. It was far from easy but she lost her twenty pounds.

And so, in the tenth round after a long, hard fight, "I will" gave "I won't" the old K.O. and was proclaimed the winner. "I won't" was a sore loser and was heard muttering threats about the next time as he left the arena.

Moral of the story — Dieting is a long, difficult, lonely fight that is many times lost but when you do win, it is a real victory over the part of ourselves that tends to lead us astray.

Living Costs Up Again During April

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs, led by sharp price increases for food and clothing, rose three-tenths of one per cent in April and were four per cent above a year ago, the government reported today.

Prices were also higher last month for housing, medical care and a broad range of consumer services, said the Labor Department.

Asst. Commissioner Arnold Chase of the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said the new price increases supported the warning of Arthur M. Okun, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, that the nation's economy is headed for more serious trouble.

The April price increases pushed the consumer price index to 119.9. This means it cost $11.99 in April for typical consumer goods and services that cost $10 in the 1957-59 base period.

At the same time, the wholesale price index for farm products, processed foods and industrial raw materials rose one-tenth of one per cent to 108.3.

Chase said most of the price increases resulted from strong demand and higher wages, and that the prospects were for a continued increase.

The bureau also reported that average wages for some 45 million rank and file workers rose two cents an hour to $2.79 in April and weekly earnings hit a record high of $104.63.
